

THE POKE SALAD

ORCHESTRA

Appearing at the HCC Klinefelter Barn

SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 7:00 P.M.

The Poke Salad Orchestra from Kansas City uses guitar, fiddle, and cello to play a wide range of musical genres from classical to contemporary music.

The Poke Salad Orchestra is a string trio that is firmly rooted in American traditions of old-time, country and early popular music. This home-grown orchestra happens in the moment, based on musical winds that can lead them in any direction. The group's rapport, combined with individual command of their instruments, draws listeners in and envelopes them in the sound of strings being coaxed to their limits.

All three members of the Poke Salad Orchestra have in common a desire to reach beyond the boundaries of musical styles to craft a personal interpretation of the tunes they love. Their performances have been met with smiles of recognition at their choice of songs, along with hearty approval of their spirited delivery.
